FLOWERS OF VOLUNTEER PARK CONSERVATORY

Blooming Month by Month

Seattle's Hidden Gem

Sara L. Chapman

For flower lovers everywhere. You can almost smell the flowers in this photographic tour of Seattle's hidden gem, the Volunteer Park Conservatory, one of the last Victorian glass conservatories in the U.S. This beautiful book, the first ever about the Conservatory, is published just in time for the Conservatory's upcoming 2012 Centennial Celebration.

Created from twelve monthly visits, the book showcases the magnificent, rare flowers and extraordinary foliage from around the world. View the Conservatory's signature blend of perfect horticultural technique with world-class, creative plant combinations. Feel the healing beauty of these perfect flowers as you browse among the stunning displays, marvelling as they change throughout the year.

Complete with common and scientific names of plants, includes a comprehensive index. Helpful and inspiring to armchair gardeners and plant professionals alike, this book will become a year-in, year-out choice for flower lovers everywhere—for beauty, reference and gifts.

"Spectacular glossy new book... Sara Chapman's photography is superb, the lighting is spot on and the colours genuine. Each detail and nuance is expertly captured and showcased... luscious... with an incredibly detailed index," says Shirley Martin, The Gardening Life

A portion of the proceeds from the sale of this book will be donated to the Friends of the Conservatory.

About the Author: Award-winning photographer, Garden Club member and photoblogger, Sara L. Chapman has gardened in New York, Florida, California and Washington State, with a life-long interest in scenic, flower and garden photography. She is a graphic designer, since 1999 owning Art Squad Graphics, a graphic arts studio specializing in book design. Sara also owns LoveThatImage.com, a photography website.
